SHAPING OUR WORSHIP

Shaped by the Word of God

Tom O'Loughlin is a Catholic Priest and Professor of Historical Theology at the University of Nottingham. He has a special interest in the history of scriptural interpretation, and recent books include 'Gildas and the Scriptures: Seeing the World through a Biblical Lens', and 'Making the Most of the Lectionary'.

Shaped by Space

Graham Maule is a Resource Worker for the Wild Goose Resource Group. He is an artist, designer and occasional hymnwriter, who is drawn to imagining and researching space – or rather, place, sign, symbol, song, performance and the event of ritual in lay training and involvement.

Conversations in Worship

A new resource being piloted in Scotland designed to assist groups in exploring their encounters with God and their experiences of worship. What if our stories shed light on, or had something to say to, our patterns and practices of worshipping together?
